

TWO NEW FORD STORIES

HE FINDS FORDS
ARE AS ALIKE AS PROVERBIAL PEAS

Tom Murphy, who lives out on Seventh street, came to town yesterday with the same Ford that he has owned for years. And as he drove into town behind Old Glory, parked on his windshield, he kept a cautious eye on the new speedometer in front of him.

Tom pulled up on Washington street, parked his trusty Ford, and went to a nearby shop for a shave—then to another shop for refreshments. Coming out later, musing over a fragrant toothpick, he started for his car, but came to a halt before a bewildering line of Fords. Tom looked the line over, blinked his eyes and looked again. He was unable to pick his pet from the brood. He stirred his faculties, made sluggish by a hearty meal, and looked the battalion of cars over for the third time. His car was not, "among those present."

The confused Tom, then bethought himself of the number of his car—1112—and took an inventory of all numbers before him. But no 1112 was to be seen. "Perhaps," he thought, "I have forgotten the number; better look for some other identification mark." The American flag on the wind shield? He looked again. There it was, the third car from the end. He started to climb in, but to his disgust, found that this was not his car. He looked about in despair. Most of the Fords had American flags on their windshields. None of them he could call his.

He couldn't have mislaid the car, but to make sure, he looked under an automobile nearby, then searched his pockets. But to no avail. For two hours he walked the streets in a vain hunt. Suddenly he remembered that he had just gotten a new state license. The happy man raced back to the assembly of Fords on Washington street. The new number was the key to his trouble, for with it, he found his car in a twinkling.

But here is the tragedy. Pinned to the steering wheel was a notice from the police department summoning him to court for leaving his car standing on Washington street for more than 20 minutes. He was in the toils of the law in spite of the new speedometer.

GLENDALE WORK
NEEDING LABOR

Scarcity of labor is halting the work on the new school buildings at Glendale where $25,000 is being expended on nine unit buildings and an auditorium. Despite the fact that interruptions are causing delays, Homer Davis, superintendent of schools, believes that the unit buildings will be completed when school opens, September 17.

Mr. Davis stated yesterday that brick is being burned in Glendale for the structures and that the work was being forwarded as quickly as possible under the present conditions. Unless there is a noticeable increase in the number of men employed the auditorium will not be ready for occupancy when the remainder of the buildings are ready for use in the early autumn. There has been a remarkable growth in the schools of Glendale in the past year. Four new teachers will be employed in the grades next season, bringing the teaching staff up to 17 in all.

CONSENTS TO RESIGNATIONS
AMSTERDAM, July 11.—German Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg, says the Koelnische Volks Zeitung, promised the Reichstag that he would consent to the resignation from the cabinet of Foreign Minister Zimmermann and Dr. Karl Helfferich, secretary of the interior, and vice chancellor. In addition, five members of the Prussian cabinet will be asked to resign.

This is an unusual photo, as dirigibles are few and far between in this country. They form a most valuable addition to the forces fighting abroad and are especially valuable in observing operations.

JAMES MAHONEY
NEW HEAD FOR PIONEERS' HOME

James F. Mahoney, of Winslow, yesterday was appointed by Governor Campbell to be superintendent of the Pioneers' Home at Prescott, the appointment to become effective today. Mr. Mahoney formerly was a conductor on the Santa Fe railroad and has been prominent in the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, having been legislative agent for them at the last session of the legislature.

During the term of Governor Sloan, Mr. Mahoney was superintendent of the Industrial school while that institution was located at Benson, and made a splendid record. He is one of the pioneers of this state. Mr. Mahoney succeeds as superintendent of the Pioneers' Home Judge P. S. Wren, of Constellation, who has been in that office for the past two years.

HEARING WILL BE AT WINSLOW
A. A. Betts, member of the state corporation commission, with Benjamin H. Ferguson, engineer; J. M. Phillipowski, reporter, and Sam W. Proctor, secretary, leave today for Winslow where a hearing will be held on the complaint made that the Santa Fe improvement company is charging unfair rates for water service to a subdivision of that town.

The improvement company is a subsidiary of the Santa Fe railroad company, and the commission for some time has been making water meter tests to ascertain the fair rates to be charged residents it serves.

THOUSANDS OF STATE'S ACRES
ARE TAKEN UP

In a statement just issued by the local land office, a summary is given of all land claims in the state filed during the month of June. This list includes claims filed under all classes of eligibles and includes all classes of lands. This summary shows that there have been, in this time, a total of 367 claims filed, covering an area of 107,884.5 acres. These claims brought into the national treasury a sum of $8,246.77 in the shape of fees.

In commenting on this list, John L. Irvin, land registrar said: "While the amount of land taken up during the past month does not show an unusual increase, it is very good for this time of the year. The state, as will be seen continues to select land for its reservations with its usual foresight and discretion. On the whole, the business for this office at this time is fairly active."

The list is as follows:

CHURCH AIDS IN FOOD CONSERVATION

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11.—The church is to become a positive force in food conservation as a result of a conference here today between food administration officials and prominent churchmen representing virtually every denomination in the United States. A committee from each denomination will aid in the campaign, which will include weekly reports through the churches of what every family is accomplishing in saving the necessities.

PROBING EXPLOSION

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—A naval board of inquiry of four ranking officers was appointed today by Captain Robert L. Russell, commandant of the Twelfth naval district, to investigate the cause of an explosion at the Mare Island navy yard yesterday which killed six and injured 21 persons. The findings of the board will be made direct to Secretary Daniels, it was announced. All of the injured are expected to recover, it was officially announced, but no details concerning the probable cause of the blast which badly damaged several buildings and destroyed thousands of dollars worth of property, were obtainable from official sources. It became known that the board would pursue its investigation on the theory that the explosion was the result of external agencies rather than natural causes.

BUNGALOW GARB
LATEST THING

The summer dress problem has been solved. The correct costume of the hour is the bungalow apron. Any woman appearing at the meeting of the Balaz Parent Teacher association tomorrow afternoon in any other costume will be fined 25 cents. The edict has gone forth—it's to be a bungalow apron from now on and no other. A dainty lingerie frock or a smart gingham will not be tolerated for a moment. The penalty will be the small fine, but it might possibly lead to social ostracism. Every woman in the Balaz district is invited to attend Friday's gathering at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Franklin La Rue. The serious purpose of the meeting is to discuss methods of procuring additional volumes for the school library.
